PARTNER, SAVINO STURROCK & SULLIVAN

Program: HEALTH CARE REFORM: WHAT IT WILL MEAN TO CONSTRUCTION FIRMS?

is the first of a series of public policy programs CCIA will present this fall. This timely program will be an unbiased examination of the practical impacts of the various health care reform proposals currently being considered in Congress, and what is likely to come out of the debate. CHRISTOPHER MONROE OF SAVINO, STURROCK & SULLIVAN will speak on the federal proposals as well as the state proposals, including Connecticut's Sustinet and the Massachusetts health care system. In the end, Mr. Monroe will attempt to answer the bottom line issue: How will health reform at both the federal and state levels affect Connecticut construction firms and their ability to deliver affordable, quality health care to their employees?
